Participants of the 20th Anniversary Debating Chamber Celebration Event - 29 June 2019

SPCB Privacy Notice

This privacy statement explains how we collect and use personal information about you in connection with your participation in the 20th Anniversary Celebration Event taking place in the Debating Chamber on 29 June 2019 (the “Event”).

The purpose of the processing

Details of participants and performers who are invited to take part in the Event are held for administrative and security purposes and to facilitate the planning process of the Event, as well as payment of fees and travel expenses.

Names of performers may be printed in the Event’s Order of Service which will be available to all guests of the Event.

We will be live broadcasting all proceedings at the Event which will be available on Scottish Parliament TV and stored as on demand footage available to the public following the Event.

We may also publish the names and likeness of the primary performers in promotional material in print or online, such as on our website or social media accounts.

The categories of information processed

The personal data used is “normal category” data in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation’s definition i.e., title, name, the name of the organisation the participant is representing, date and place of birth and contact details.

If you supply us with any information relating to your health in order to allow us to make special accessibility arrangements to facilitate your visit, this information will be “special category data”.

Source of the information

Information regarding Event participants and performers is provided directly by individuals themselves or through the organisation which has arranged and has responsibility for the performance; third party representatives or companies representing the participants and performers.
The legal basis of processing

The legal basis for processing the personal data is that it is necessary for the performance of the contract the SPCB enters into with you (if applicable) (Art 6(1)(b) GDPR) or because the processing is necessary for a task carried out in the public interest (Art 6(1)(e) GDPR). In this case, the public interest task is the facilitation of a ceremonial event which is part of the core task of the SPCB.

If you provide us with any health-related information, the processing is necessary for a task carried out in the substantial public interest, which is our compliance with equalities legislation.

Retention of Data

Details of Event participants and performers are retained electronically for 5 years in line with the SPCB Records Management Retention Schedule.

Personal data obtained for security vetting purposes will be destroyed within 5 working days of the Event taking place.

Data sharing

Data may be shared internally where necessary with other departments and employees of the Scottish Parliament Corporate Body.

On expiry of the retention period, details of participants and performers in the Event may be passed to the National Records of Scotland with a view to permanent historic preservation. For the transfer of data to the National Records of Scotland, the legal basis is that it is necessary for archiving purposes in the public interest (Art 6(1)(e) GDPR, section 8(d) Art Data Protection Act 2018.) For the avoidance of doubt, this does not apply to personal data obtained for the purposes of Event security vetting which will be destroyed within 5 working days of the Event taking place.

Filming and Photography at the Event

The SPCB will take video and photography footage of the Event. Video footage will be live streamed on the Scottish Parliament TV and then kept as on-demand footage available on the Scottish Parliament website. Photographs of the Event will be used for promoting the role of the Scottish Parliament in educational material, on the Scottish Parliament’s website and social media accounts.

For more information, please see our privacy notice about filming and photography.

Your rights

The GDPR sets out the rights which individuals have in relation to personal information held about them by data controllers. These rights are listed below, although whether you will be able to exercise each of these rights in a particular case may depend on the purpose for which the data controller is processing the data and the legal basis upon which the processing takes place.
Access to your information – You have the right to request a copy of the personal information about you that we hold. For further information, see our Data Subjects’ Access Requests Policy.

Correcting your information – We want to make sure that your personal information is accurate, complete and up to date and you may ask us to correct any personal information about you that you believe does not meet these standards.

Deletion of your information – You have the right to ask us to delete personal information about you where:

- You consider that we no longer require the information for the purposes for which it was obtained.
- Our use of your personal information is contrary to law or our other legal obligations.

Restricting how we may use your information – in some cases, you may ask us to restrict how we use your personal information. This right might apply, for example, where we are checking the accuracy of personal information about you that we hold or assessing the validity of any objection you have made to our use of your information. The right might also apply where this is no longer a basis for using your personal information but you don’t want us to delete the data. Where this right to validly exercised, we may only use the relevant personal information with your consent, for legal claims or where there are other public interest grounds to do so.

Please contact us in any of the ways set out in the Contact information and further advice section if you wish to exercise any of these rights.

Changes to our privacy statement

We keep this privacy statement under regular review.
