Privacy Notice

This privacy statement explains how the Scottish Parliamentary Body (the SPCB) collects and uses personal information about you for the following process: public access to 2018 Edinburgh International Culture Summit.

The purpose of the processing

A guest list is collected on behalf of the Edinburgh International Culture Summit and held at the Scottish Parliament for the purpose of facilitating the registration process for guests on arrival by SPCB Visitor Services.

The Categories of Information processed

The data used is ‘normal category’ data, in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation’s definition i.e., title, name, email and name of the organisation the individual represents where applicable.

Depending on the nature of the ticket request, we may also receive and temporarily store “Special Category” data as defined by the General Data Protection Regulation such as political views; religion; trade union membership or health.

Source of the information

Information regarding guests is provided directly by the individual wishing to attend the 2018 Edinburgh International Culture Summit, via submission of an email.

The Legal basis of Processing

The legal basis for the processing of personal data in the manner described above is that it is necessary for a task carried out in the public interest (Art 6 (1)(e) GDPR, s8(d) DPB.) The public interest task is to ensure the safety and security of the building and its occupants.

For any special category data collected and used in the process, the legal basis for the processing is that the personal data processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest. The public interest is compliance with statutory equality requirements. (Art 9(2)(g), S10(3) and Part 2 Schedule 1, para 6 DPB, s29(7) Equality Act 2010.)

A service provider must make reasonable adjustments.

Processing personal data relating to protected characteristics enables the SPCB to make reasonable adjustments.
This does not interfere with the rights of the data subjects disproportionately because the data subjects provide the data themselves, they are not under an obligation to provide the data to us and we only keep the data for the minimum time necessary to comply with the statutory obligation.

Data sharing

Your data may be shared internally where necessary with other departments and employees of the Scottish Parliament Corporate Body and the 2018 Edinburgh International Culture Summit delivery team. This data is not shared with any other organisation or third party.

Retention of Data

The event guest list will be deleted five working days after the Edinburgh International Culture Summit is held.

Your rights

The GDPR sets out the rights which individuals have in relation to personal information held about them by data controllers. These rights are listed below, although whether you will be able to exercise each of these rights in a particular case may depend on the purpose for which the data controller is processing the data and the legal basis upon which the processing takes place.

Access to your information – You have the right to request a copy of the personal information about you that we hold. For further information, see our Data Subjects’ Access Requests Policy.

Correcting your information – We want to make sure that your personal information is accurate, complete and up to date and you may ask us to correct any personal information about you that you believe does not meet these standards.

Deletion of your information – You have the right to ask us to delete personal information about you where:
- You consider that we no longer require the information for the purposes for which it was obtained
- You have validly objected to our use of your personal information – see Objecting to how we may use your information below
- Our use of your personal information is contrary to law or our other legal obligations.

Objecting to how we may use your information – Where we use your personal information to perform tasks carried out in the public interest then, if you ask us to, we will stop using that personal information unless there are overriding legitimate grounds to continue.
Restricting how we may use your information – in some cases, you may ask us to restrict how we use your personal information. This right might apply, for example, where we are checking the accuracy of personal information about you that we hold or assessing the validity of any objection you have made to our use of your information. The right might also apply where this is no longer a basis for using your personal information but you don't want us to delete the data. Where this right is validly exercised, we may only use the relevant personal information with your consent, for legal claims or where there are other public interest grounds to do so. Please contact us in any of the ways set out in the Contact information and further advice section if you wish to exercise any of these rights.

Changes to our privacy statement

We keep this privacy statement under regular review and will place any updates on this website. Paper copies of the privacy statement may also be obtained using the contact information below.
